

The spotted moths from the industrial areas of England should no longer be used as an example of evolution in action

These moths are now regarded as an example of adaptation in action